By: The ASDM Launcher is a simple tool that allows you to perform a click-through Flash update from Jun 3, 2014 As part of my daily activities, I often have to go through a large number of HTML documents containing, for example, forms. They're not completed, but they have a common pattern for where to take the data. I use an add-on plugin for my latest Firefox version to count the number of lines. If this number is below 5 then it does not progress. A colleague and I use exactly the same text pattern and it's always not working. We use the same version of Firefox, on the same OS. The only difference seems to be the add-on. I've compiled the "get_number_of_lines.sh" script and the "get_number_of_lines_plugin.json" plugin code, together with the "get_number_of_lines_report.html" that is a long form of "get_number_of_lines.sh" and "get_number_of_lines.sh" on a single web page. The same output is used in two different situations. This email address is being protected from spambots. You need JavaScript enabled to view it.
