Enjoy more free time. All of your files, whether they be text documents, photos, songs, videos or other kinds of information, are usually stored in folders that are represented by special icons, such as the.txt,.doc,.mp3 and other files that come into the.exe application icon file. All of these files have a name that represents their type, which can be the same with the icon itself, but they can also be different. The.txt file could have a.txt icon, while the song file could have a.mp3 icon. If you want to clean your computer from any unnecessary files or junk files, you can simply delete them by right-clicking their icons and selecting the Delete option, although you might also see an option for using the more specific properties. For example, you can click on a.jpg file and select properties, where you will be able to see additional information, such as the date when the file was last edited. If you find that your computer is taking up a large amount of space, you can free up that space by deleting any old files that you do not need. If there is a file that was created a long time ago, you can easily delete it by simply right-clicking it and selecting the Delete option. If there is a.txt file that was created on Tuesday, then you should delete it on Wednesday. If there is a.zip file that was created last month, then it is best to delete it on the current day. It is good to learn how to find the actual storage space of your computer so that you can know when to clean it. If you have an external hard drive that was connected to your computer and you do not use it, you can simply remove it from your computer by disconnecting it and then safely remove it. You can check the storage space of your computer by going to Computer Management, clicking System, and then clicking Disk Management. Right-clicking your mouse and selecting Disk Cleanup, and you

Want to transfer big files over the internet safely? If you've answered yes to this question, then you'll want to use WinRAR, which is one of the best and safest compression software available. If you don't know how to install WinRAR, then it's time you learn. This short tutorial will show you how to get the most out of the application. This is an important thing to do if you have never used WinRAR before, because unless you know exactly what you're doing, you'll likely make some mistakes which will lead to more work and frustration for you. The best way to install WinRAR After you have installed it, the first thing you should do is look at the settings. There are three options you can use to customize WinRAR: Options, Preferences, and Settings. If you click the Options button at the top of the WinRAR main window, you'll be able to do two things: change the default file extension and unrar settings. Change the default file extension Depending on what kind of file you want to compress, you can select a different default file extension from the list. For example, if you want to compress a video file, the extension you select should be.avi. If you don't have any files with that extension, select a default extension from the list, such as.zip. This will make the file manager of WinRAR automatically extract any files that match the extension you've selected. Check the checkbox that says "Don't ask before extracting". By unchecking this option, WinRAR will never ask if you want to extract a file. Unrar settings The unrar settings are important for you to keep the same. If you uncheck "Disable UAC," you won't be prompted when WinRAR extracts files, or any other program, and it will always ask for administrator privileges. Keep in mind that the unrar settings should be set to your own needs. If you don't know the exact settings, just leave the unrar settings as they are. Compress files with WinRAR Before you can compress a file, you need to put it in your computer. If it's on your desktop, then drag it to the WinRAR window. If it's in a folder or in a zip archive, open it and drag it to the WinRAR window. If you're using a Mac, the process is almost identical. First, you should right
