Players can be seen above hopping and jumping around the pitch as if they were running on a treadmill. This feature, which is being treated as a new sub-system inside FIFA Ultimate Team, will be enabled for the first time in FIFA's history. Players who play this new mode will also have the chance to unlock new Ultimate Team players and packs through EA Sports' new MOTION RATE engine and game-changing REPLAY system. "Watching a movement-captured match is an incredible experience," said producer Emma Craven. "The capture system really captures the impact of the player's movement, as well as the way they physically perform certain actions. Just like in real life, they will look very different when they perform an explosive run and a simple dribble. We can now bring that to FIFA on a more immersive level." Players will have to log in to FIFA.com and launch Ultimate Team (UE) or Face of the Fan (FOF) to play. If a player clicks the hypermotion on-screen buttons for a certain year they will unlock a bonus pack of players that vary in performance and price. Based on how fast the player can perform a certain "movement type" - such as the sprint, jump, aerial ability, etc. - the pack they unlock will vary in performance and price. Take a look at the starting line-up:
2012-2013: Neymar Tiago Silva Zlatan Ibrahimovic Carlos Tevez
Xavi David Alaba Lionel Messi Hakan Calhanoglu 2014-2015:
Thomas Muller Wayne Rooney Eden Hazard Man City's Yaya Toure
Cristiano Ronaldo Thiago Alves Paul Pogba 2015-2016: Cristiano

Ronaldo Wayne Rooney Toni Kroos Cristiano Ronaldo Philipp Lahm
Carlos Tevez 2016-2017: Thomas Muller Wayne Rooney Luka
