At this time, my head gets tingling and I'm tempted to take a glance at the sky. I don't even know when it happened, but my calm and at ease life has been turned upside down. The space above, the blue sky, the sunlight, and the wind has become my enemy. A bird flies through the sky and disappears. The air becomes brisk. A smell of grass, soil, and a flower near me. The browned grass has become a deep red and blooms a beautiful color. The small flowers nearby, an array of butterflies fluttering around and light-colored birds pecking at them. And with a calm expression, he accepts the fact that he is going to be forced to use the Ring. However, after accepting this, he suddenly snaps and begins to weep. His tears are stained with blood on them, and Hanzo enters a nightmare in which he is being pursued by enemies. While his entire body is covered in wounds, Hanzo rushes into the town, searching for a place to hide. However, he soon realizes that the town is the reason that he received the wounds, and he is still in a sense, Hanzo is a living dead.
