menu Post navigation Sometimes I wonder if I would give up everything I have to be in New York City. I do love it. There are things that I would do if I weren't in a relationship with someone, but I'm working on my budget and finances. I've always had it together and managed to do well in my field. The only thing that's been kind of an issue has been the fiancée. Some people look at you like you're crazy when you tell them you're engaged, but I've learned to take it in stride. I did consider getting married before I moved here. Well, first I considered getting engaged and then marrying. It was tough to find a ring. It was an on again, off again thing. I would've settled for something but when it was time for the man to propose, I had to say no. He thought it was a secret. Ha. I finally had it made up in my mind to get married before I move out here. Then it all changed. Now he wants to marry me, but I can't decide. I'm torn. I like the idea of having everything planned out for the future, but I also have things I want to do now. I want to go to New York City and actually go see a Broadway show. I've been wanting to go to a Broadway show since I was a little kid and the fiancée doesn't really care about the theater. He's more into video games. I have another ring in my closet that he bought for me. I don't want to wear it because the idea of being with this man isn't real. I mean, it's wonderful and everything, but I can't feel completely safe with him. I can't kiss him or touch him or hold his hand. Even though I know he'll do right by me, it makes me feel like a woman. And I'm not a woman. It's weird that I'm getting married. I feel like I'm in a really bad soap opera. I do love him. He's a good man and everything. I just want to move on with my life and get settled. I'm trying to decide

What's new in Sakura Clicker - Striped Bikini:

: Last night I was watching a show about kids in a ward at Primary and had gotten a bit sentimental, remembering my childhood, when I saw that I had gotten a new BHS at the Youth Mixer all these years!! Well it took me so long to think of this loads of tears my first choice was pink but didn't want to go for a girly pink, guess which colour came out? Thank goodness I didn't go for #37, I kinda knew how I was gonna get my very first brindled horse ticked with me. Well whatever the colour, colouring was it, when I added the ups'u Spay, I really thought the color was gonna be muted or olive green when the colour ODs the dye. Well then I thought well I could just run the socks over the beet blade in the cutter to get my colour and then dye the socks an extra colour. then I realised what I had done. I had just gone and spoiled all that colour. View From Another Horse's Heart : We got our first workshop completed for the year here in Aravina - the warmup day for the Brunch Bowl (Dave: Aravina's main rodeo event - hopefully we will be in the

A-Lister's this year!) Tonight's Photo Gallery : Hernane was kind enough to hook me up with a pair of Spotted pony feet! Hernan and I like a challenge. Last week we challenged each other to a tug of war match with no ground work, no turn around, no backwards, no more than 6 foot of rope between horses who reverse each other (we would have some fun riding the horse with its head at our tool). We encourage you, when ever a Spotted Live Event comes up to try and join us in a tug of war match. This was the first year we got involved, it certainly makes for entertaining events! He needs to be in good condition, otherwise the ground work sounds like a good idea. You can see the original posting here and use the 'votes' tabs at bottom right to vote for your favourite photos. Hernanes Foot Lounging Set Up : There's not a lot left to say about this except that its nice to see the hoof well fed and licked. Behind the scene shots of the creation of a foot lounge

Hate a city? Hate your life? Then this game is for you. After a string of misfortunes in his life, Ryuo has managed to get himself locked up in the city of Kamurocho where he is presented a life of leisure. But if the bad luck does not stop here, he has to face a gang of yakuza that is trying to take over Kamurocho and claims that Ryuo is one of them. I've tried playing this game a lot, and this is my first review. For those who had not heard of this series, "Jinnai Toshi o Mamirete" is a game series which features a story of a protagonist who is a yandere in real life as well. As soon as you boot up the game, you are presented with the "Spring Summer" version with some changes to the graphics. The graphics are very good for a jrpg, and I have not experienced any lag while playing the game. The resolution of the graphics is "4K". Even though you cannot see a lot of things in the game, like for instance in the cutscene showing Ryuo's yandere side, the quality of the graphics are really good. The voice acting is also very good, and the musical pieces and the japanese music score are really good. As usual, the game is very focused on the yandere character who wants to be free of their reality and her life. Since the game is just one person's point of view, you will always find yandere side characters. Some of them are really famous characters and you have experienced these characters in other games from the series. Yandere characters are mainly women or men but some of them are manly yandere boys. I'll list them here. Kyon - The main protagonist of the game and one of the main reasons why the story was changed. Before playing "Jinnai Toshi o Mamirete", the "Zettai Karen Children" was already released. In the first "Jinnai Toshi o Mamirete" game, you had to play as a guy named Kyouki who is the main protagonist of the first game. Since "Zettai Karen Children" is a dark and gloomy game, Jinnai Toshi o Mamirete is a lighter version of the game in terms of atmosphere. The main reason why the story is changed is that, as we played "Zettai Karen
