Operates and tracks files and folders that are shared over local area network. Main features: Automatically launches each time you restart your computer. Protects privacy while allowing you to view who accessed files. Configurable alarm settings that notifies you by email or sound. ProXPN (previously known as ClamAV) is an open source antivirus scanning engine for e-mail. ProXPN is similar in nature to ClamAV, since it detects all viruses and worms that ClamAV detects. However, it differs from ClamAV in that ProXPN does not have specific virus signatures. Instead, it uses the ClamAV engine by default to detect them. The ProXPN scanning engine is slower than a dedicated virus scanner, but it is more customizable. Its scanning performance is comparable to the more expensive commercial antivirus tools. It should be noted that it can detect the very latest viruses, thus making it perfect for the most popular mail providers. Primary features: HTTP, IMAP and POP3 mail scanning engine. Advanced pattern detection, signatures and behavior. Reverse IP look-up and address blocking. Firewall extension for blocking unauthorized SMTP and POP3 connections. Screenshots: ProXPN technical details Licensing ProXPN is free software. There is no license fee or EULA associated with it. For those who are looking for a commercial paid version with enhanced features and a number of optional paid add-ons, ProXPN costs $10 per month.
