Game "Crisis Action": Twitch: ?Battle River? - Ep 17 ??

Battle River is a RustTeam Fortress 2 map designed by brabantic. The goal of this map is to be an alternative to Rust Jungle Strike, which in my opinion is the best map in the TF2 mod scene. It features a trailer over the forest limit to set it apart from other maps in the mod scene as well as making it look and feel like real life. I want to be able to make this map look and feel the best it can possibly feel so if there is anything that can improve the map with making it feel better then feel free to let me know. I tried to make this map look as close as possible to the Rust Jungle Strike map from the link below with almost identical trees down to the bugs the trees are infested with. Training // 202.811 VIDEO CrisisAction VR is a virtual reality game designed to simulate a scenario you'd experience in crisis situations where you need your mind and your body to engage in a possible violent situation. This experience uses 360-degree video and motion capture of the movements of 2 actors to truly feel you're in the center of a violent situation. In this case, the scenarios include: threatening with a knife, shooting at the event, stabbing at the event and punching at the event. In this remote-controlled environment, the player can interact with important objects such as the car, the knife and the gun with an intuitive virtual lever that blends those actions with the elements of the simulated environment like cameras. There are movements in 360-degrees, like a virtual balcony as well as a room scale environment. The entire experience changes dynamically according to the actions that the player performs. The goal of this project is to simulate and simulate the scenarios that you are exposed to in our every day life. The training was conducted by Daniel Arroyo.
