Q: How to get a byte array from a pdf file using PDFBox2.0.0

I'm working on my project which is base on PDFBox2.0.0 and Java. In my project, I'm trying to find a way to get a byte array from a pdf file. I found that using PDFBox, it is possible to get a byte array, for example :

PDDocument document = PDDocument.load(new File("C:/test.pdf"));
ByteArrayOutputStream
byteArrayOutputStream = new ByteArrayOutputStream();
PDPageContentStream contentStream = new PDPageContentStream(document, page);
contentStream.draw(new Ellipse2D.Double(10,10,200,50));
contentStream.close();
byte[] byteArray =
byteArrayOutputStream.toByteArray();

But when I tried to convert my code based on PDFBox2.0.0, I get this error : java.lang.NoSuchMethodError: c9d1549cdd

[SPOILER] This slideshow requires JavaScript. Easter, or Chinese New Year, aka Spring Festival (春节), is a Chinese festival celebrated by many Asian cultures. It is also one of the most important holidays in China. There are many traditions associated with the holiday. Some of these include decorating homes with dragon, lion or phoenix lanterns. As a part of the holiday, people buy and eat "Yuanyin" or jasmine rice cake, or lucky food (eg. Pocky or Yakisoba). Traditionally, children ask their parents if they are old enough to celebrate the Chinese New Year, usually around 7 years old, giving a peach blossom as a gift. Parents tell their children "not to stare at you" to avoid them staring too long at the peach blossom, which they say is bad luck. Spring Festival is often known as the "Spring Equinox" or Spring Festival. It marks the beginning of springtime. This is because the Chinese zodiac is centered around a dragon, which has a year with the same number of days as a dragon. Spring Festival marks the return of the Chinese New Year and the beginning of the Year of the Sheep (羊年), which is the year of the sheep, or a sheng nu, according to the Chinese zodiac. The holiday is the first of four "intercalary" or non-observable holidays (the others are Mid-Autumn Festival, Hungry Ghost Festival, and Tomb Sweeping Day). It falls between the Autumn Moon Festival in September and the the Lantern Festival in October. Traditions include singing and dancing, playing traditional music such as an opera or opera (from which the term "opera" itself is derived), and holding social events such as the Chinese New Year's Eve party, Chinese New Year's Day Party, and Chinese New Year's Eve dinner. Celebrations of the holiday include a full day of ceremonies, the 14th day of the Chinese New Year, is called the "Egg-Frying" day, as well as other observances. The holiday is also considered a day for relatives to visit and get together, and to wish each other good luck for the coming year. Old style is a traditional Chinese New Year's eve dinner in which the host (or hostess) sets the table with a special dinner that includes foods that

What's new:

Forthree The Gift That Keeps On Giving! Terrific for leveling up, great for staking and great for w/w. Most impressive aspect about this Minion Horde? i) All of its talents are relevant and valuable, some more than others.e.g:-when you take Enact the Righteous, you get another Enact the Righteous for free from this pack. i) How many different minions can you make from this? Isn't that what's important? i.e.: Either they should have been in packs before, or the game should be changed around to make it feasible for packs to have lots of different built-in variations, or "Because we can!"" i) "Adding to the Core" - another faction for the Alliance. What would be the suggested "Silver" Level Distribution of this? i) "Kitchen Sink" - is kitsayskill the same as Treasure Chest? i) Though I like the idea of making GUIs that are available when the online players run the expansion pack, perhaps it would be nice to be able to run the expansion pack out-of-the-box without depending on a GUIs?? Thank You for this forum. I thank you for the insight provided, including your reaction to comments posted by my Valrus. Your comments on behalf of my children help provide some entertainment value to me, which I appreciate. I feel, with the expense of making this, I would need to see a cost per unit. Is the $0.50 cents pricetag representative? I would need 5k to play the game, and would like to know what the minimum cost per unit is at in terms of my overall strategy for playing this. Why? Both games have a sense of "playability" to them. I just don't know as a faction player if Horde is a good fit for me as a Female player, though it is a good idea for me, I don't feel it's the one I'd really enjoy playing - it's a bit much of a "pressing issues" button for me to push. I too like the idea of adding a 3rd faction and will definitely try this when it becomes available. When I started playing WoW 1.0, it was an Alliance only world, and later Horde, then yet another Alliance. Same goes for any most of the TBCs

Demo: Full Game: Gameplay Trailer: Orly is a fast-paced, competitive platformer game set in a living, breathing universe. Play as Orly: - Create your own character and descend into a living world. - Hunt for loot. Sell it. Build houses. Buy things. It's up to you. - Upgrade your stats to be as fast as you can be. - Battle it out in 8 different maps. - Be the last one standing. Developer Notes: Early versions of this game were made with Unity in a small group over a period of about four months. In this short period we were able to make a game but it was not really big and in a way like a toy. The Steam version uses a lot of new features including Multiplayer, Teamplay, voice chat, Steam cloud sync, new game mechanics and other cool stuff.
