Now that Ive spoken to him, Im almost positive that WaveH went into something shady, whether it was to just get his hands on the code for the Mercury Bundle, or if he somehow took the code, disassembled it, put it together again (likely inside a nice package), and brought it to us. Im sure his plan was to make the Mercury Bundle so incredibly good that we would beg him to give it to us on a silver platter. Im not a coder, but these things tend to have a special appeal to cods since they rarely meet any sort of peer pressure to write neat code. I think that if WaveH didnt stop on the cusp of completion, and released his product, he would have just kept losing money and finding ways to shake us off for more. It would not be a bad thing to make him take a steep learning curve, but youd have to show him a better way to code to convince him to do it. I think that if WaveH released his product, he would have to explain to us why the Mercury Bundle is inferior to the Freesound File. That would take a lot of time and money. I totally agree - This is so annoying! If you buy a plugin - you should be able to upgrade for free every time in a future proof way! You pay for a product - you want to use it You dont expect it to stop working just because theres an updated version being released unless theres a major overhaul of functionality and a boot load of additional features and improvements!! I mean - when Apple bring out a new iPhone - you dont expect your old one to suddenly stop working just because a new updated version / model has been released! This is poor from Waves and a real reason to look elsewhere for your plugins!
