When you are using a WinHTTP instance configured for SSL or TLS/SSL, then WinHTTP looks at the WINHTTP_OPTION_SECURE_PROTOCOLS registry value to determine which protocols are enabled for negotiation. If WINHTTP_OPTION_SECURE_PROTOCOLS is not defined, then WinHTTP will query the registry and look for the DefaultSecureProtocols entry. If the entry is present, WinHTTP will use the protocols specified in the registry entry to negotiate the WinHTTP secure protocol. we've added the optimal registry settings for cable modems, dsl or any similar broadband internet connection to the registry patches below. note that if you're using the tcp optimizer program, there is no need to apply any of those registry patches, as they modify the same parameters. you should really experiment with different settings and add them manually or using our tcp optimizer program above rather than applying generic patches, however we've added them for simplicity, ease of installation and the many requests. please make sure you download the patch for your version of windows, they are slightly different. if you'd rather try editing the registry yourself, check the registry tweaks section of the site, or use our tcp optimizer program. note: all patches are compressed and downloadable in zip format. you might need an utility, such as winzip or winrar to unzip the downloaded files before installation. before you begin the following instructions, make sure you have the system diskette or a thumb drive with enough free space available to perform a complete backup of your system registry. make sure you have a backup because you cannot undo any changes you make in this section. 5ec8ef588b
