'Breath' of prayer of John Lennon salutes the victims of the New Zealand attack The world's most famous and famous guitar is being flown from New Zealand to America to the victims of the mass shooting in two Christchurch mosques, a tribute that has taken on a very personal nature for John Lennon. Guitar in the name of peace The guitar that was used by Lennon and his wife Yoko Ono for some of their most famous protest songs, including Give Peace a Chance, is being flown to the USA to a concert in honor of the victims of the Christchurch attack. Image: Youtube The concert will take place on the East Coast of America and feature 15 artists from across the world. John and Yoko's handwritten letter The performers and other guests include Paul Simon, Roger Waters, Bono, and Taylor Swift. The concert is expected to take place on March 24th at 9:00 pm Eastern Standard Time in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. News of the concert was announced on Monday night in a tweet from John Lennon's representative and manager. Read more: In a similar tribute to the victims of the attack, fellow New Zealander singer Sia released an emotionally raw video of her own just a few hours after the horror unfolded. In the short clip, Sia is seen sat at a piano and playing an upbeat song, while blood covers the ground behind her. "I'm so sorry, so sorry," she sings over the music. "I'm so sorry. I'm so sorry, so sorry." "I'm so sorry for the families," she continues. "I'm so sorry. I'm so sorry, sorry. I'm so sorry. I'm so sorry. I'm so sorry. I'm so sorry.
