Tired of getting lost while driving? Let the DokuDrive, an application that integrates with Google Maps, steer you. The driver becomes the navigator. The DokuDrive can also be used to locate other vehicles in your vicinity. It recognizes the vehicle and stores its position. Using voice control, the app will tell you where you are going. If you lose your destination, it will guide you. Once you reach your destination, it will start the engine. The driver interface consists of the parking sensors, the steering wheel, the speedometer and the fuel gauge. The program recognizes where the car is and lets you know by announcing the current position. It also gives you a voice control for start, stop and gas (in case you forgot). Moreover, if you leave the vehicle without starting it, a notification will alert you about this. The app also warns you about cross traffic, so you can safely exit the road. In addition to that, the program can calculate the average speed, route, cost and distance to your destination. Unlike the traditional method, the application will not just ask you questions, it will guide you to the right destination. DokuDrive works even when the vehicle is connected to Wi-Fi or turned off. Besides, it works in all Google Maps versions and regions (USA, Europe, Asia, Africa, etc.). The DokuDrive has an integrated voice control, enabling you to ask it
